He dted at Cedar Springs, Feb. 8, 1828, in his 78th year. Mrs. Rishell was quite hale when last heard from. She is an aunt of William B. Allison, the distinguished U. S. A protective law was passed at that time which has been in force ever since until the last Legislature enacted its general game bill. In addition to blackbirds, the open season commenced on the 1st inst. for these: Railbirds, reedbirds, doves, sandpipers, tattlers, curlews, or any other shore bird; Wilson or jacksnipe, wild geese, wild ducks, brants, swans, coots and mudhens, The open season will continue until January. The season for all kinds of small game opens Oct. 15, except squirrels and woodcock, which come in on the 1st of Oct. Then there is another exception, by-the-way; quail and rabbits are not in season till Nov. 1st, when deer also are eligibile for slaughter. Then the regular season closes on the last day of November, although the deer season shuts off on the 15th of that mouth. In fact, the present game law is about as bigadamfarce as it is possible to make it.

WEINGARD, Lewis Weingard died at his home in Harmony township, Forest county, Sept. 8, 1905, aged 49 years, 1 month and 6 days. Deceased was the son of Frederick and Fredericka Behrens Weingard, and was born in Allegheny City, Pa., Aug. 2, 1856. In 1861 his parents came to Forest (then Venango) county and made their home on German Hill, where they cleared and cultivated a farm, and here is where Lewis grew to manhood. He was baptized in infancy, and received into full communion in the Lutheran church while yet a youth. He was united in marriage the first time with Miss Rosetta Emmick. This union was blessed with two daughters, one of whom, together with the wife, preceded him to the grave. He entered the marriage state the second time with Miss Belle Stitzinger, and to them were born two sons and one daughter. He leaves to mourn his death his

The question as to whether snakes 'lay eggs" has been much discussed of late, we notice, but for our part we prefer to hold to the theory of friend John Wilson, who resides about four miles from Tionesta, in the edge of Venango county, It will be recalled by some that the RE-PUBLICAN published an account, about three months ago, of Mr. Wilson's experience in this line. How that he had gone to a den and killed four rattlesnakes and that in a test he had found little amined. So that it can no longer be successfully disputed, snakes lay eggs, and do not give birth to their young, as some maintain. Some time during Sunday night las ourgiars effected an entrance to the gen eral store of Collins, Watson & Co., at Golinza, Pa., by snapping the fastening of one of the windows, and proceeded to rifle the safe. One of the deposit boxes in the safe was carried away. In this box, which was kept locked, was cash to the amount of $28. Also a number of checks, as follows: Collins, Watson & Co., in favor of J. B. Smith, for $8.38, drawn on the Citizens National bank of Tionests, dated Sept. 9th, and numbered 9106. Check of W. A. Benjamin George, the clerk, was in the store about four o'clock Sunday evening and there were no evidences of theft at that time, so that the raid was made some time during that night. There is not the slightest clue as to the perpetrators, and there had been no suspicious characters seen about the premises of late. Saturday was pay-day at the lumbering plant before a pay-day, suspicious character were seen in the vicinity.

Brisk Styles Fall Footwear

When a man is buying his new fall footwear he likes to have the game as well as the name. In a great many cases he doesn't-simply because most shoe stores show merely the same old things made up in the same old way.

It's different here; when we say new styles we mean new-the latest ideas of the very best shoe designers copied from the ultra fashionable last of the swell custom makers.
